NEWSLETTER FOR TSUD FACULTY AND STAFF

TSUD PLANS WEEK OF CELEBRATION

For those of us who experienced the "Week of Celebration" prior to the Presidential Installation Ceremony in April 1997, we are about to experience a similar sense of university community as we prepare for the groundbreaking for the TSUD Library/Technology Building. For those of you who are new since April 1997, this week of celebration reflects a time that Dr. Malone refers to as being a part of an engaged, responsive university. The week of April 12-16, 1999, will be our "Week of Celebration" leading up to the long-awaited construction of our third building.

"How fitting it is that the week of April 12-16 is National Library Week. The scenario is playing out perfectly," said Tony Whetstone, director of student and community services and chair of the Groundbreaking Planning Committee. A Groundbreaking Planning Committee has been meeting since late January to plan, organize, and host a reception and ceremony for Friday, April 16, 1999. Several events have been planned for the days prior to the ceremony. They are: (tentative at the time of this printing)

MICHELIN DONATES $100,000 TO TSUD

Michelin North America presented a $100,000 check on March 3, 1999, to Dr. Michael E. Malone, president of Troy State University Dothan. Michelin's Bill Green, who manages the plant in Dothan, made the presentation at the TSUD campus and commented, "This donation shows Michelin North America's continued commitment to the Wiregrass region and support of Troy State University Dothan."

Michelin's contribution will support The Troy State University System's Quest for Excellence Capital Campaign. The campaign targets facility construction and renovation as well as support for faculty, students, programs, and technology. In appreciation for this donation, a large conference room in the new TSUD Library/Technology Building will bear Michelin's name.

Construction of the 53,000 square foot building is scheduled to begin on the TSUD campus in April 1999. "Michelin's corporate and community spirit has been readily demonstrated through this gift to TSUD. We will be good stewards of this generous contribution," said Dr. Malone. Malone added, "Michelin is our neighbor and now they are our corporate partner. Together we will work to improve the quality of life for our community's many neighborhoods." The vast majority of TSUD graduates live and work in the Wiregrass area. Realization of the goal set for the Quest for Excellence will enable TSUD to plan for the future with confidence and ensure that its education mission will prosper well into the 21st century.

Michelin manufactures and sells tires for every type of vehicle, including airplanes, automobiles, bicycles, earth-movers, farm equipment, heavy duty trucks, motorcycles, and the space shuttle. Headquartered in Greenville, SC, Michelin North America employs 23,000 and operates 25 plants. Michelin's Dothan plant was established in 1979, employs 600 people, and produces radial light truck tires.

PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE

"Another Chapter"

As you know, the construction of our new Library/Technology Building has been the focus of my energies for the past eighteen months. Groundbreaking on April 16th will culminate a weeklong celebration of the best of TSUD's outstanding young heritage. But more importantly, groundbreaking on the sixteenth will signal the beginning of yet a new chapter in this university's history; a chapter that will describe TSUD's "coming of age" at a time when American higher education seeks to redefine itself relative to changing demographics, increasing market demands, and mind boggling technological developments. As we write this chapter together, I hope you are as excited as I!

Yet as important as construction of our third building and further design of our fourth building are to all of us in this community, I would be naïve to say new construction is the most important challenge facing us. Building construction pales in contrast to the importance of our accreditation reaffirmation by SACS, NCATE, and ACBSP. Regional and national benchmarks of academic and service quality must be met and surpassed. There is no doubt in my mind that we have the quality people, programs, and support services to exceed all requirements placed before us. And, I am totally confident of our successful reaffirmation outcomes because of the academic and support service leadership we have in place.

I have spoken often about how our programs and unit leaders set the tone and pace of quality outcomes here at TSUD. I take my strength and energy from you folks. Thank you, Barbara, Cynthia, Adair, Alan, Priscilla, Jan, Bud, Jim, Matt, Tony, John, Julia, and Ronnie for your leadership. You inspire your staffs and colleagues to greatness--and you inspire me to rise to your standards of quality! (I can't wait to read this chapter--long after it's written.)

CHANCELLOR'S FELLOWS NAMED FOR 1999

Three Troy State University System faculty and staff members have been named Chancellor's Fellows for 1999, one of the highest honors presented by TSU.

The Chancellor's Fellows are Dr. Robert G. Riedel II, assistant professor of psychology at Troy State University; Sandra Gail Gouge, dean of student affairs at Troy State University Montgomery; and Stacey Tyrone Mixon, assistant professor of physics at Troy State University Dothan.

The purpose of the Fellowship program is to assist faculty and staff in enhancing their leadership skills and increasing their knowledge and understanding of the programs and operations of The Troy State University System. The chief officer of each TSU campus solicits nominations for the program from deans or other academic officials.

Participants of the program have a number of duties. They work with a senior-level administrative mentor, attend seminars dealing with current issues in higher education leadership, and complete a project that addresses an issue in The Troy State University System. The program lasts for a complete academic quarter.

The program was established as a result of a recommendation during the 1994 TSU System Conference, and it was modeled after the national fellowship program sponsored by the American Council on Education. The first fellowship program was offered Spring Quarter 1995.

"The Chancellor's Fellowship is a wonderful opportunity to learn more about the operation of The Troy State University System and the interaction among its campuses," Mixon, who earned his Ph.D. from Florida State University, said. "I believe it contributes to the development of a spirit of cohesion and cooperation among the personnel within The TSU System." Mixon has taught at Troy State University Dothan since 1996.

For Gouge, who received both bachelor's and master's degrees from TSUM, the program offers a multitude of opportunities for self-improvement. "The fellowship program will give the participants many opportunities," Gouge said. "To explore new directions, broaden our System perspective, broaden our understanding of the challenges ahead of us as educators, examine our own leadership style, gain a better understanding of higher education in the legal and political arenas, and improve ourselves professionally and personally."

Riedel has been at TSU since 1994. He graduated from Moorhead University with a B.A. in psychology, received his M.S. at St. Cloud University, Minnesota, and completed his Ph.D. at Colorado State University. "I believe this program will help me become more familiar with the internal workings of Troy State University and the entire university system," Riedel said. "I hope that this experience will allow me to gain knowledge and administrative skills from a senior-level administrator which will allow me to become better prepared for future challenges in higher education."

Current program coordinators are Dr. Shirley Woodie, director of the Institute for Leadership Development, and Dr. Robert Pullen, dean of the College of Arts and Sciences. Campuses participating in the program are TSU, TSUD, TSUM, and TSU Phenix City.

Creative Writing Club attended the Birmingham-Southern Writing Conference March 11-13. The Grand Master was Pat Conroy.

Creative Writing Club will attend the Monroeville Writing Conference May 7-8. They welcome anyone who wishes to attend the conference. Please contact Dr. Brenda Ameter or Chris Bryant for more information.

And the results are ...

The Office of Institutional Research and Effectiveness conducted a Graduate Follow-up Survey whereby graduates of TSUD were given the opportunity to respond to a survey aimed to assess TSUD's effectiveness in relation to meeting student needs. 900 alumni who graduated between spring 1996 and 1998 were randomly selected and mailed a survey. The survey produced 154 usable responses. Alumni were asked to provide information regarding their satisfaction with their experiences at TSUD. Some of the highlights from the survey are:

*90% of the respondents thought that TSUD had very well prepared or somewhat well prepared them for their current jobs or positions.

*22 of the respondents are currently attending another college and of this number 82% expressed that they were satisfied or very satisfied with the way TSUD had prepared them for their advanced degree pursuits.

*91% expressed that they would recommend or strongly recommend TSUD to someone considering attending a college or university.

*87% were satisfied with the overall quality of education at TSUD.

*87% were satisfied with the effectiveness of faculty teaching at TSUD. Further, 88% were satisfied with their instructor's preparation for class.

The survey summary submitted by the IE office included that the alumni rated the importance of TSUD experiences very high for their goals and expectations, which indicates that students have very high expectations for their college education. Though the rate of return for the survey was low, these are just a few pieces of valuable information that indicate that TSUD is indeed making a difference in meeting the needs of our students!

Quest for Excellence TSUD Library/Technology Building

Indeed the Vestibule that we toured in our last issue is going to be beautiful and will offer a grand welcome to all that come into the building! Now let's continue our tour...

Sharing the first floor with the Vestibule is the new Instructional Support Center (ISC). Students and employees who are working on documents or projects will use this facility. The ISC will contain word processors, copy machines, laminating machines, networked computers, color printers, scanners, and other tools of information technology. Instructors will use the ISC when creating materials to use in their classrooms. Also available will be a variety of videos, cassettes, children's books, educational resources, and learning materials. The new ISC will provide audiovisual equipment for the university and community businesses. The new ISC will be a wonderful place where creativity can come to life! The ISC will be 3,720 square feet.
